

Translab.io Code Of Conduct Policy

Your code of conduct covers a comprehensive range of important topics, ensuring that employees understand their responsibilities and obligations to maintain professionalism, ethical behaviour, and compliance.

Here's a breakdown of the main points addressed:

Acceptance of Policy: Employment with the Company is contingent upon your acceptance of this policy, forming part of your contractual agreement. By agreeing to these terms, you acknowledge your commitment to comply with all company rules and regulations, including the Code of Conduct.

Compliance Expectations: All employees, board members, contractors, consultants, and others working for the Company are expected to adhere to the Code of Conduct. Failure to comply may result in disciplinary action, including termination.

Reporting Violations: Any violations of the Code, company policies, or laws should be promptly reported to management or HR. Reports will be handled confidentially, and whistleblowers will not face retaliation.

Fostering Supportive Work Environment: We're dedicated to fostering a workplace culture free of harassment, bias, and discrimination. Discrimination or harassment based on protected characteristics is strictly prohibited.

Substance Abuse and Workplace Safety: We maintain a zero-tolerance policy for substance abuse as it jeopardizes employee health and safety. Smoking and unauthorized alcohol or drug consumption at work or sponsored events are prohibited. Managers may request alcohol or drug screening if there's reasonable suspicion of impairment.

Conflict of Interest: Employees are expected to prioritize the interests of the company and its customers and to refrain from engaging in activities that could compromise those interests. The policy covers various areas where conflicts of interest commonly arise, such as outside employment, competing in business activities, receiving compensation or benefits, using company assets, personal investments, relationships with friends and relatives, giving or receiving gifts, entertainment, and other business courtesies, and the use of company products and services. Employees are required to disclose any potential conflicts of interest promptly and seek guidance from Human Resources.

Post-Employment Client Engagement: If an individual has been assigned to a project and subsequently decides to leave the company, they are restricted from joining any client for a duration of six months following their exit. Engaging in such an attempt may result in legal consequences.

Confidentiality Safeguarding: Confidential information must be handled responsibly, secured, and disclosed only to authorized individuals or parties under nondisclosure agreements. Accuracy and clarity in business communications are essential, and external disclosures require appropriate approvals.
